This is the second of a series of new-style Iowa county histories which will eventually include all of the 99 counties of the Hawkeye State. It is part of an over-all publishing project known as The American Aerial County History Series—a project that, ultimately, will embrace all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. A list of already-published volumes for Illinois and Indiana is printed on the back of the title page of this work.

Each book specializes in low-altitude aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads. In each volume, also, are a streamlined history of the county and brief historical narratives of its cities, towns and villages. The text for each volume is being written by John Drury, author of Historic Midwest Houses, Midwest Heritage, etc., and member of the American Association for State and and Local History and the Illinois State Historical Society.

In the preparation of this work on Johnson County, Iowa, the writer and publisher hereby acknowledge their gratitude, for advice and assistance generously given them, to Mr. Joseph C. Wolf and Mrs. Ellen Chase of the Newberry Library, Chicago; to Mr. Herbert H. Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Sutton and Miss Winifred Baum, all of the Chicago Public Library, Chicago; and to various librarians, public officials, business executives and private citizens of Iowa City and Johnson County, Iowa. The author also wishes to express special acknowledgment to his wife, Marion Neville Drury, for research, editorial and proof-reading assistance.

Grateful appreciation is also shown here to officials of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Commerce and to officials of the Highway Planning Survey section of the Iowa State Highway Commission for permission to use the Johnson County maps included in this book.

STORY OF JOHNSON COUNTY, IOWA

Occupying an area of more than 600 square miles in the southeast portion of Iowa, Johnson County, besides being a leading grain, cattle, hog and turkey county of the commonwealth, is especially notable in the Hawkeye State for two important reasons—here, in the past, were located Iowa's territorial capital and first state capital, and here, at the present time, is located the great State University of Iowa, with its fifty modern buildings spread out on an ample, 600-acre, landscaped campus.

In addition to being the educational center of the state, Iowa City, seat of justice of Johnson County, is also the commonwealth's medical center. Serving as a nucleus of this center is University Hospital, with a capacity of 1,000 beds. Around it are Mercy Hospital (220) beds, a veterans' hospital (500 beds), a children's hospital and a psychiatric hospital. Just beyond the city, to the northwest, lie the extensive grounds and many buildings of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

Johnson County is of interest also for its attractive Lake Macbride State Park, a recreational locality that lures thousands of visitors to the county each summer. It is located about three miles west of the town of Solon and occupies an area of nearly 300 acres of natural woodland. Within the park is a 138-acre lake which affords boating, fishing and swimming opportunities to visitors. The park also contains picnic grounds, hiking trails and many shelters.

As a result of its early historical associations and the early establishment of the state university within its borders, Iowa City has produced—and continues to produce—some of the Hawkeye State's greatest men and women; persons who have won national acclaim in the arts, sciences, humanities and professions. In past years Iowa City was the home of Robert Lucas, first Governor of the Territory of Iowa; Samuel J. Kirkwood, governor of Iowa during the Civil War; Walter A. Jessup, long-time president of the State University of Iowa and a leading American educator; Thomas Macbride, another president of the university and also president of the Iowa Park and Forestry Association; John T. Frederick, nationally-known author, editor, book critic and founder of The Midland magazine; Grant Wood, foremost of American regional artists; Benjamin F. Shambaugh, a leading political scientist and historian; and Cora Bussey Hillis, founder of the Iowa Child Welfare Association.

UNDER THREE FLAGS

What is now Johnson County—as well as the State of Iowa—was, in the beginning of recorded history here, at first under the French flag. It was in 1682 that Robert Cavalier, Sieur de La Salle, took formal possession of the entire Mississippi Valley for France, naming it Louisiana. This was just nine years after Louis Jolliet and Father Marquette discovered the upper Mississippi Valley region. On that historic voyage of discovery, Jolliet and Marquette became the first white men to set foot on Iowa soil.

For nearly a hundred years after La Salle's formal proclamation, the vast wilderness region first explored by Jolliet and Marquette remained under the French flag. In 1762, however, France ceded to Spain all of its territory west of the Mississippi River, a huge area that afterwards came to be known as the Louisiana Purchase. Thus, land that now is Johnson County, Iowa, came under the Spanish flag.

And it remained under this flag for the next thirty-eight years. During this Spanish period, Julien Dubuque, a French-Canadian trader, arrived and became the first white man to settle permanently in the Iowa countryside. He received a grant from the Spanish governor of Louisiana to operate lead mines at the place where now stands the city of Dubuque.

Then came the year 1800. In that year Spain retroceded its vast, and vaguely-defined, territory west of the Mississippi to France. It is to be remembered that when the American republic was formed after the close of the American Revolution in 1783, its western boundary was fixed at the Mississippi River. Now, in 1800, France once more acquired the great prairie region lying west of the Father of Waters.

But it did not long remain under French sovereignty. As most of us know, what is now Iowa—and all of the Great Plains area—came under the American flag for the first time when President Jefferson successfully negotiated, in 1803, his historic Louisiana Purchase. With the payment of $15,000,000 to France, as well as the cancellation of certain debts, the new American republic acquired all of the territory west of the Mississippi River as far as the Rockies—a vast domain out of which were later carved thirteen states, including Iowa.

TERRITORIAL DAYS

Now that the Iowa country (it was then known as Ioway, so-named after an early tribe of Indians in the region) was part of the United States, it came under the jurisdiction of a number of successive territorial governments before reaching statehood in 1846. At first, or from 1804 to 1805, it was part of the District of Louisiana, which then was governed by the Territory of Indiana. When Louisiana became a territory of its own in 1805, future Iowa came under its jurisdiction.

Then, from 1812 to 1821, it was part of the Territory of Missouri. From 1821 to 1834 it existed as part of the unorganized territory of the United States. With the organization of Michigan Territory in 1834, the Iowa country came under the jurisdiction of that territory. Here it remained until 1836 when it became part of the Territory of Wisconsin.

And it was in Wisconsin Territory when the Iowa country became a territory of its own in 1838. At that date, the new Territory of Iowa included practically all land between the Mississippi and Missouri rivers and as far north as the Canadian boundary—a region that now embraces not only Iowa but Minnesota and most of the states of North and South Dakota. The population of the Territory of Iowa then was 22,859. A year after the territory was organized, Iowa City was founded in Johnson County as the territory's first capital. And when Iowa was admitted to statehood in 1846, Iowa City continued as the new state's capital, or until Des Moines became capital in 1857.

INDIAN OCCUPATION

When the first American settlers came to the area that now is Johnson County, they found it occupied by remnants of the Sauk and Fox tribes of Indians—tribes that had earlier forced out the original Ioway redmen of the region. Three outstanding chiefs of the Iowa countryside then were Black Hawk, Keokuk and Wapello. After the Black Hawk War of 1832 the Indians ceded to the government a strip of land fifty miles wide on the west side of the Mississippi River in what later became the Hawkeye State, and this was immediately thrown open for settlement by the whites.

Confining ourselves to the area that afterwards became Johnson County, we find there were three Indian villages here when the first American settlers arrived. All were inhabited by members of the Mascoutin branch of the Sauk tribe. It was this branch that gave to the present county and city of Muscatine their names. The three villages we are discussing lay on the Iowa River, where both fishing and hunting could provide a livelihood for the Indians.

One of the three villages was ruled over by Chief Totokonock, who, we are told, was Black Hawk's principal prophet. He predicted that Black Hawk would be successful in his war against the whites. An opposite view, however, was held by Chief Poweshiek, another headman of the area. He refused to join Black Hawk in the 1832 struggle. His village was on the Iowa River in what later became Pleasant Valley Township. The site of Chief Poweshiek's village, just below the mouth of Snyder Creek, in after years became part of the David B. Cox farm.

Still another Indian village of the area was that ruled over by Poweshiek's sub-chief, Wapashashiek. This community of skin teepees was located one mile north of the Poweshiek settlement, closer to the site of future Iowa City. All of the Indians of these villages, however, agreed to leave the territory after the second Black Hawk Purchase of 1837—the same year in which Johnson County was created. In that historic year, the Sauks and Foxes ceded 1,250,000 acres of land to the United States and moved farther westward to Nebraska and Kansas.

EARLY TRADING POSTS

Although the first actual settlers of Johnson County were Samuel C. Trowbridge, Philip Clark and Eli Myers, all of whom came from Elkhart County, Indiana, in the fall of 1836, yet the records show that John Gilbert was conducting an Indian trading post in the future county as early as 1830, which was two years before the outbreak of the Black Hawk War.

We learn that John Gilbert came here as an agent of the American Fur Company, which was still headed by the founder of the company, John Jacob Astor. In a few weeks time Gilbert built a trading post on the Iowa River adjacent to Chief Poweshiek's Indian village and immediately began trading in furs. The post consisted of a log storehouse, a cabin and several cribs for the keeping of supplies and produce. All of these buildings were protected from prowling wolves by a stockaded enclosure.

Gilbert's trading post was located in present-day Pleasant Valley Township on land that afterwards became the property of James Stevens. In the year that Gilbert built his trading post, the Iowa countryside was part of the unorganized territory of the United States.

When Johnson County was created in 1837, however, John Gilbert severed his connection with the American Fur Company and became a fur trader in his own right, building a new post near Chief Poweshiek's village. He was assisted in the building of this establishment by Samuel C. Trowbridge and Henry Felkner, who were among the earliest settlers of Johnson County. Both were young men at the time. By now the Iowa region was part of the Territory of Wisconsin.

Not to be denied their share of the plentiful supply of peltries in the Iowa River countryside, officials of the American Fur Company promptly sent out a new agent to replace John Gilbert. He was Wheaton (or Wheten) Chase. Soon enough, Chase had a sizable fleet of canoes, flatboats and keelboats in service on the Iowa River, transporting pelts to the great fur house of Chouteau, Laclede & Company at St. Louis.

EARLIEST PERMANENT SETTLERS

In the fall of 1836 three young men of Elkhart County, Indiana, started out on horseback for what was then known as the "West"—that is, any land west of the Mississippi River. They wanted to grow up in the new domain explored by Lewis and Clark and later path-finders. These three young men were Samuel C. Trowbridge, Philip Clark and Eli Myers. On reaching South Bend, Indiana, one of them, Trowbridge, became ill and returned to his Elkart County home. The other two continued westward.

Myers and Clark finally reached Rock Island, Illinois, on the Mississippi River. Here they met John Gilbert, who was temporarily absent from his fur trading post on the Iowa River. When Gilbert returned to his trading post, the two young Hoosiers were with him. They had followed Gilbert's advice to "locate" in the Iowa countryside.

It did not take the Hoosiers very long to find suitable locations for a future home. They staked out claims near the Gilbert trading post on the Iowa River. After building "claim cabins," which were hardly more then four sticks of wood in the ground, and after being assured that their rights would thereafter be guarded by John Gilbert, the two young men from Indiana returned to their Elkhart County homes, planning to come back to the Iowa countryside in the following spring.

Something of an "Iowa fever" was created by Clark and Myers when they got back to Elkhart County and told of the fertile land that could be had in the Iowa River countryside. By early spring of 1837, when Clark and Myers again started for their western claims, they were accompanied by four of their Elkhart County neighbors, Samuel Walker, James Walker, William Wilson and Eli Sumney.

Later that spring, other Elkhart County residents followed the Clark-Myers party. These were Samuel C. Trowbridge, Henry Felkner, Judge Pleasant Harris and his nephew, William Massey. The latter was accompanied by his wife, who was a sister to Mrs. Jonathan Harris, daughter-in-law of Judge Pleasant Harris. Still other Elkhart County citizens came later that same year, among them Jonathan Harris and his wife and child, and Isaac N. Lesh and his wife (another daughter of Judge Harris). They were followed a few months later by Joseph Walker, Samuel Baumgardner and Andrew D. Stephen.

All of the above spearheaded the Hoosier movement into the Johnson County area during 1837 and thus were the first permanent settlers of the locality. Almost all of them located on claims up and down the Iowa River and soon had their lands under cultivation.

JOHNSON COUNTY CREATED

When Johnson County was created on December 21, 1837, it was a part of the Territory of Wisconsin. Not until a year later was the Territory of Iowa established. A census taken a few months after Johnson County came into being showed it had 237 settlers. On the same day it was created, the Wisconsin territorial legislature, then meeting temporarily at Burlington, established thirteen other counties in the Iowa countryside—Dubuque, Clayton, Jackson, Benton, Linn, Jones, Clinton, Scott, Delaware, Buchanan, Cedar, Fayette and Keokuk.

Although Johnson County was now created, given a name and its boundaries set, yet it was without a formal civil government; this was to follow a year later. In the meantime, its first settlers were under the jurisdiction of nearby Cedar County.

And thus it came about that the Cedar County sheriff, James W. Tallman, brought into being what may be termed Johnson's first county officer. On May 28, 1838, Sheriff Tallman officially appointed Samuel C. Trowbridge as census taker for both Johnson and Keokuk counties. When Trowbridge completed his duties, he found, as we said before, that Johnson County had 237 citizens. But this number increased rapidly in the months, and years, following the establishment of the county.

VICE PRESIDENT RICHARD M. JOHNSON

When Johnson County came into being, it was named after Richard Mentor Johnson, who then was Vice President of the United States under President Martin Van Buren. A popular political figure of his day, Johnson was also known as Colonel "Rumpsy-Dumpsy" Johnson.

He earned this odd name from a political song of the Jacksonian era, the chorus of which had these words:

"Sing and shout, O rumpsy-dumpsy, Colonel Johnson killed Tecumseh!"

The song, widely sung in the Van Buren presidential campaign, arose from the belief that Johnson, as a colonel in the War of 1812, killed the famous Indian chief, Tecumseh, at the Battle of the Thames in Ontario, Canada. In that encounter, Colonel Johnson served brilliantly under General William Henry Harrison.

A native of Kentucky, where he was born in 1781, Richard Mentor Johnson was educated at Transylvania University in that state, studied law, and entered politics as a Democrat. He served in the House of Representatives from 1807 to 1819, and in the United States Senate from 1819 to 1829. All during this time he was a strong supporter of President Andrew Jackson. In 1836 he was nominated, and elected, Vice President of the United States.

After serving in this office for one term, Johnson retired to Kentucky and there lived until his death in 1850 at the age of eighty. A biography of him, The Life and Times of Colonel Richard M. Johnson, by L. R. Meyer, was published as recently as 1932. One old Johnson County historical work said of Colonel Johnson: "He was distinguished throughout his life for kindliness of heart and urbanity of manners. He was the author of the law abolishing imprisonment for debt in Kentucky."

FIRST FORMAL GOVERNMENT

On the same day that the Territory of Iowa was established—July 4, 1838—Johnson County achieved its first formal government. For a few months previous to this (and while still part of the Territory of Wisconsin), it had been under the jurisdiction of nearby Cedar County. But now Johnson County could legally set up a county government of its own.

It was Samuel C. Trowbridge who helped to bring this about. On June 12, 1838, he appeared before the Wisconsin territorial legislature, then meeting in the territory's temporary capital at Burlington, and presented a petition from the citizens of Johnson County asking for the right to establish a county government of their own. He succeeded in having the Honorable John Foley, of Dubuque County, introduce a bill to that effect.

The Foley bill was finally passed and signed on June 22, 1838, by Governor Henry Dodge of Wisconsin Territory. It was not to be in force, however, until the following July 4th. An earlier effort to bring about this legislation had been made by Trowbridge's fellow settlers, Judge Pleasant Harris and the judge's son-in-law, Isaac N. Lesh. With them in this effort was the fur trader, John Gilbert.

On the next day after signing the bill, Governor Dodge appointed Samuel C. Trowbridge to the post of temporary sheriff of the newly-organized county, or until such time as a permanent sheriff and other permanent officers were elected. As temporary sheriff, Trowbridge was practically the head of the county.

NAPOLEON BECOMES COUNTY SEAT

While preparations were being made to obtain formal government for Johnson County, two towns were planned with the objective of becoming county seat. One of these was named Napoleon and the other Osceola. As the day for formal organization of the county approached, rivalry increased among the promoters of each town for the title of county seat.

One group of promoters was headed by Judge Pleasant Harris, who, by the way, did not obtain his judicial title until after he became the county's first probate judge. It was Harris and his numerous kinsmen who, on paper, planned the town of Osceola, complete with churches, a courthouse, a park or two and a college. They named it after Osceola, a chief of the Seminole tribe of Indians in Florida. It was his wife, Oskaloosa, after whom the present Iowa town of Oskaloosa is named.

It seems that the Harris group had everything ready for a model town except a site. In the meantime, the town of Napoleon was being planned by another group, which included the then temporary sheriff, Samuel C. Trowbridge, as well as the fur trader, John Gilbert. Others with them were Philip Clark, Henry Felkner, John Morford and George Baumgardner. The last-named was something of a surveyor.

According to local tradition, the Harris people were about to select the same site for their town that the Trowbridge people had chosen. When word of this was brought to the Napoleon promoters, they acted quickly. First they got a squatter to stake out a claim on their site, and then they ordered George Baumgardner to make a quick survey of the townsite. Next, they rushed to completion a two-story frame building which they would offer to the county as a courthouse.

Such was the situation when Samuel Trowbridge appeared before the Wisconsin territorial legislature with a petition for the formal organization of Johnson County. As it happened, the new town of Napoleon was officially designated as county seat. The only other building in the town besides the two-story frame house was a single log cabin. This town was located about two miles south of the future site of Iowa City in what is now East Lucas Township. As for Osceola, it never got beyond the stage of a "paper town."

FIRST COUNTY ELECTION

As we have seen, Johnson County was authorized by the Wisconsin territorial legislature to set up a formal government of its own at any time after July 4, 1838. As it happened, that date also marked the birth of the Territory of Ohio, with Burlington selected as a temporary capital. One of the earliest acts of Iowa Territory's first governor, Robert Lucas, was to order an election for county officers, to be held September 10, 1838, in the various new counties of the territory, including Johnson.

And thus it was that, on this date, Johnson County held its first formal election. The voters cast their ballots in the two-story frame house at Napoleon which had been quickly built for a county courthouse. Judges of that first election were Isaac N. Lesh, William Kelso and David Sweet. The clerks were I. P. Hamilton and S. H. McCrary.

When the voting was over at the end of day, it was found that the following had been elected Johnson's first county officers: Henry Felkner, William Sturgis and Abner Wolcott, county commissioners; I. P. Hamilton, recorder; S. B. Mulholland, assessor; Peter Crum and William C. Massey, constables; Samuel C. Trowbridge, sheriff; and John Egan, treasurer.

When Egan failed to qualify as county treasurer, the Board of County Commissioners, a few months later, appointed the fur agent, Wheaten Chase, in his place. The board also appointed Sheriff Trowbridge to serve as assessor when S. B. Mulholland failed to qualify for this post.

At the time of this first election, Robert Walker was already serving as the county's first Justice of the Peace, having earlier received this appointment from Governor Robert Lucas. He held that office continuously for the succeeding forty years.

At a subsequent election, held in August, 1839, additional county officers were elected, among them being Cyrus Sanders, surveyor; John Hawkins, coroner; and Pleasant Harris, judge of probate. Also elected then was Johnson County's first state representative, S. C. Hastings.

FIRST POSTMASTER

Although the county's original fur trader, John Gilbert, was not among those elected to public office in the county's earliest elections, he soon afterwards received an appointment from the federal government as Johnson's first postmaster, with his office at Napoleon. But he did not hold the appointment longer than one day. It was on March 2, 1839, that his appointment came through the mails, and the next day he died.

His successor, William Harris, was named to the post a month later. Before a postoffice was established at Napoleon, the early settlers of Johnson County received their mail from the postoffice at the town of Bloomington (later re-named Muscatine) below on the Mississippi River. This town was also the nearest Mississippi steamboat landing to Johnson County.

IOWA CITY FOUNDED

With the establishment of the Territory of Iowa on July 4, 1838, the first territorial legislature set up a temporary capital at Burlington, on the Mississippi River. Later, or on January 21, 1839, it passed an act for the founding of a permanent capital city somewhere in Johnson County, this county then being located nearest to the center of the territory's population. The act ordered further that three commissioners be named to select the site of the capital city, and that they meet and be sworn into office not later than May 1, 1839.

There followed the appointment of the three site commissioners—Chauncey Swan, of Dubuque County; John Ronolds, of Louisa County; and Robert Ralston, of Des Moines County. In the meantime, official word came from Washington that Congress would donate the section of land (640 acres) in Johnson County chosen by the site commissioners for a territorial capital (most of the land in the county was then in the public domain).

When the final day arrived on which the commissioners could meet and be sworn into office—that is, May 1, 1839—a sizable crowd of settlers were at the meeting-place, namely, the frontier village of Napoleon. They were surprised, however, to find that only one commissioner had turned up, Chauncey Swan. A capital site could not be legally chosen unless two commissioners were present.

After waiting a spell, Swan became apprehensive and decided to send a messenger, Philip Clark, to the home of the commissioner who lived nearest to Napoleon. This happened to be John Ronolds, who resided some 35 miles away. Could Ronolds be located and brought to Napoleon before midnight, the legal deadline of the meeting day? As the hours passed, people at Napoleon grew more and more excited. In the crowd were those who wanted the capital in Johnson County, and there were others who wanted it in some other county.

With the approach of midnight, excitement was at a feverish pitch. Then Chauncey Swan, as he afterwards said, looked at his watch. It registered five minutes to 12 midnight. At the same moment, and in the midst of loud cheers, Commissioner John Ronolds arrived. He was quickly sworn into office by a Justice of the Peace, the legal papers involved were dated May 1, 1839, and the day was saved for Johnson County.

There is a tradition in Johnson County, however, that some observers at that Napoleon meeting noted how remarkably short were the hours between midnight and dawn on that historic May 1, 1839.

BUILDING OF CAPITOL

Having selected a site on the Iowa River a few miles north of Napoleon, the commissioners next ordered the survey of a townsite, the laying out of streets and lots, the location of a twelve-acre capitol square and the construction of an appropriate territorial capitol building not to exceed $51,000 in costs. At this time, too, the Johnson County Board of Commissioners moved the county's seat of justice from Napoleon to the new town of Iowa City, and thereafter Napoleon declined and disappeared.

The cornerstone of the capitol was dedicated at gala ceremonies on July 4, 1840, with Territorial Governor Robert Lucas as the principal speaker. It was in this building, a stately stone edifice designed in the Greek Revival style by the pioneer Midwest architect, John F. Rague, that constitutional conventions were held leading to the formation of Iowa into a state. After Iowa was admitted to statehood in 1846, the old territorial capitol served as the new state's capitol until 1857, when Des Moines became capital of Iowa.

STATE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

Although Iowa City lost the state capital, it was more than compensated for this loss by being selected as the seat of the State University of Iowa. The act for the establishment of the university was passed by the state legislature on February 25, 1847. The university did not open, however, until 1855 when seventy-five students were admitted for studies under three professors. Two years later the old state capitol was turned over to the university. Still standing on its original site, Old Capitol is not only the university's administrative office but is the most revered historic building in the State of Iowa.

Perhaps the most renowned of the university's past presidents was Walter A. Jessup, who served from 1916 to 1934. In the latter year he was appointed president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Today, the State University of Iowa occupies fifty modern buildings on a 600-acre landscaped campus spread out on both sides of the Iowa River. It has a present enrollment of 8,000 students.

FIRST RAILROAD

Of great importance in the development of Johnson County was the arrival of its first railroad. This was the Mississippi & Missouri Railroad, completed to Iowa City on January 1, 1856. Other "steam lines" quickly followed the Mississippi & Missouri, and from that time onward the county rapidly forged ahead as a leading agricultural locality.

MORMON HANDCART EXPEDITION

With the building of a railroad to it, Iowa City, for some years afterwards, became an important rail terminus; a gateway to the Far West. A few months after the Mississippi & Missouri was completed, some 1,300 European converts to the Mormon faith arrived at Iowa City and made preparations for an overland trek to Salt Lake City in Utah. During the spring and summer of 1856 they camped at Coralville, just outside Iowa City, and built handcarts for the overland expedition. In these handcarts they transported their belongings over the Great Plains to the city founded by Brigham Young a few years earlier.

THE CIVIL WAR

When President Lincoln sent out his urgent call for 75,000 volunteers at the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, Johnson County quickly responded with more than its quota of men and money for the Union cause. It was a Johnson County man, Samuel J. Kirkwood, who was then governor of Iowa. Supporting President Lincoln's stand, Governor Kirkwood asked for the formation of one regiment in Iowa and ten times that many men responded. During the war the old Johnson County fairgrounds at Iowa City was converted into Camp Fremont and used by the 10th Iowa Infantry.

THOMAS MACBRIDE

One of Johnson County's most important figures during the early years of the present century was Thomas Macbride. He was not only a leading American conservationist but an outstanding educator. When the Iowa Park and Forestry Association was organized in 1901, Macbride was elected its first president. At a later date he founded the Lakeside Laboratory of Scientific Research at Lake Okoboji. He also served as president of the State University of Iowa. Today, his name is perpetuated in Lake Macbride State Park, largest recreation area in Johnson County.

STATE TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM

In addition to its great Iowa City medical center, Johnson County contains the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. It is located at Oakdale, just northwest of Iowa City, and consists of numerous hospital buildings as well as several dairy barns, a greenhouse, water works and a power plant.

JOHN T. FREDERICK AND THE MIDLAND

It was in 1915 that Johnson County gave birth to one of the most important regional magazines in the history of modern American letters. This was The Midland, founded at Iowa City by John T. Frederick. At that time Frederick was an instructor in English at the State University of Iowa. He later became professor of English at the university. An associate editor of The Midland was Frank Luther Mott, who subsequently became director of the school of journalism at the University of Missouri.

Among prominent American authors of today whose writings first appeared in The Midland are James T. Farrell, Ruth Suckow, Paul Engle, Phil Stong, Richard Sullivan and MacKinlay Kantor. While editing The Midland, Frederick also wrote numerous books, including two novels, Druida and Green Bush. After The Midland was discontinued in 1923, Frederick became a nationally-known radio commentator. He is now a member of the faculty of the University of Notre Dame at South Bend, Indiana, and, when not teaching, operates his farm near Glennie, Michigan.

LAKE MACBRIDE STATE PARK

An outstanding recreational area of Johnson County, one that attracts thousands of visitors to the county each summer, is Lake Macbride State Park, located about three miles west of the town of Solon. It was named after Thomas Macbride (1848-1934), famed conservationist and one-time president of the State University of Iowa. The park occupies an area of nearly 300 acres of natural woodland. Within it is a 138-acre lake which affords boating, fishing and swimming opportunities to visitors.

GRANT WOOD HOME

If Old Capitol is the principal historic sight of Iowa City, a close second is the quaint, venerable, red brick house in which lived the late Grant Wood, most celebrated of modern American regional artists. Built in 1858 by Nicholas Oakes, pioneer Iowa City brickmaker, this two-story dwelling, with its ornate eave brackets, green shutters, white trim and red brick facade, was acquired by Grant Wood in 1936. Here he lived and painted until his untimely death in 1942. Soon after the artist died, his house was purchased by E. C. Miltner, an Iowa City businessman and husband of Dr. Pauline Moore, one of the city's leading physicians. On acquiring the house, the Miltners made plans to maintain it as nearly as possible in the state Grant Wood left it when he died.

"WHO'S WHO" IN JOHNSON COUNTY

Aside from Polk County, which contains the capital city of Des Moines, Johnson County has more listings in the latest (1955) edition of that standard reference work Who's Who in America than any other county in Iowa—a fact due, of course, to the presence there of the State University of Iowa. There are 109 men and women of achievement in Johnson County whose biographies-in-brief appear in the current Who's Who, and of this number all but three or four are associated with the university.

Although most of those listed are known for their scholarly, scientific, technical and cultural attainments, yet quite a few have wider reputations than might apply to any particular field of activity. Among the latter are Virgil M. Hancher, president of the State University of Iowa; Allin W. Dakin, administrative dean at the university and assistant to the president; Paul H. Engle, poet, author, book critic and professor of English at the university; Justice Robert L. Larson, member of the Supreme Court of Iowa; and Congressman Thomas E. Martin, former mayor of Iowa City.

Others are William J. Peterson, author, historian and superintendent of the State Historical Society of Iowa; H. Garland Hershey, state geologist of Iowa; William R. Hart, lawyer and United States Attorney for the Southern District of Iowa; Colonel Walter E. Sewell, U.S.A., professor of military science at the university; Stuart Edie, artist and resident professor of art at the university; Philip G. Clapp, musician, composer and director of music at the university; Marcus Bach, author, playwright and pageant producer; Bruce E. Mahan, dean of the university's Extension Division; and Homer R. Dill, director of museums for the university. An outstanding educator who died recently (1953) was Arthur H. Moehlman, professor of the history and philosophy of education in the university's College of Education.

The largest number of Who's Who entries for Johnson County are physicians and surgeons associated with the university's great College of Medicine and its numerous hospitals. These include Drs. William B. Bean, Alson E. Braley, Henry B. Bull, Stuart C. Cullen, Willis M. Fowler, Walter R. Ingram, Harold D. Kerr, Myrtle E. Kitchell, Placidus J. Leinfelder, Dean McA. Lierle, Warren O. Nelson, Ruben Nomland, William D. Paul, Kirk H. Porter, Adolph L. Sahs, Robert T. Tidrick, Franklin H. Top, Clarence Van Epps, Emory D. Warner, and Milford E. Barnes.

Included in Who's Who from the university's College of Commerce are Professors George R. Davies, Elmer W. Hills, Wendell R. Smith, Harry H. Wade and Dean Sidney G. Winter. The College of Engineering is represented by Dean Francis M. Dawson and Professors Joseph W. Howe, Edwin B. Kurtz, Chesly J. Posey, Jr., and Hunter Rouse. The College of Education is represented by Professors Harvey H. Davis, Harry A. Greene, Everet F. Lindquist and Lauren A. Van Dyke.

Outstanding university psychologists listed in Who's Who are Dr. Harry M. Hines, Professor Boyd R. McCandless, Dr. Wilbur R. Miller and Professor Kenneth W. Spence. The same reference volume includes the following from the university's College of Law: Professors Eugene A. Gilmore, Mason Ladd, Odis K. Patton, Paul Sayre and Clarence M. Updegraff.

Included, also, are Professors Albert C. Baird, Orville A. Hitchcock, W. A.

Johnson and Edward C. Mabie, all of the School of Speech; Professors Edward Bartow, Karl Kammermeyer, Hubert L. Olin and Ralph L. Shriner, all of the university's department of chemistry and chemical engineering; Professors Paul W. Brechler, Charles H. McCloy and M. Gladys Scott, all of the department of physical education; and Professors Stephen H. Bush, C. E. Cousins and Erwin K. Mapes, all of the department of romance languages.

Additional faculty members in Who's Who are Robert G. Caldwell and Wayne Vasey, sociologists; Allen T. Craig and Lloyd A. Knowler, mathematicians; Walter F. Loehwing and George W. Martin, botanists; Ralph E. Ellsworth, librarian; Gerald F. Else, classicist; Joseph H. Bodine and Emil Witschi, zoologists; Drs. Alvin W. Bryan and Alton K. Fisher, dental educators; Erwin G. Gross, James W. Jones and Louis C. Zopf, pharmacology educators; and Erich A. Funke, Germanist.

Still more faculty members in Who's Who are Baldwin Maxwell, professor of English; David B. Stout, associate professor of anthropology; Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts; Charles C. Wylie, professor of astronomy; Harold H. McCarty, chairman of the department of geography; Professors Howard V. Meredith, Ralph H. Ojemann and Genevieve Stearns, all of the university's Child Welfare Research Station; A. K. Miller and Allen Tester, professors of geology; Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism; Paul R. Olson, C. Woody Thompson and Sybil Woodruff, economists; Anne E. Pierce, associate professor of music; Kirk H. Porter, head of political science department; and Earl E. Harper, Lester D. Longman and Mauricio Lasansky, all of the university's College of Fine Arts.

JOHNSON COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of the latest published census returns, a statistical profile may be drawn of Johnson County as it was in 1950—or in mid-twentieth century. In that year, Johnson County had a total population of 45,756, a figure which placed it 562nd in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States. This figure showed an increase of 37.9 per cent over the 1940 population figure.

The county's principal city and seat of justice, Iowa City, in 1950 had a population of 27,212—an increase of 58.4 per cent over its 1940 figure. An unofficial estimate made in 1955, however, places the city's population at 29,500. The city is also the center of a retail trading area in Johnson and several adjoining counties with a total population locally estimated at 68,000.

Occupying a land area of 620 square miles, Johnson County's density of population in 1950 was 74 inhabitants per square mile. The urban population then was 27,212 persons (all of whom lived in Iowa City), the rural non-farm population was 8,994 and the rural farm population was 9,550. In that same year there were 4,876 infants under five years of age, 3,551 persons sixty-five years old and over, and the median age was given as 26.2 years. Also in that same year 5,050 residents were living temporarily in either another county of the United States or abroad. The county then had 29,894 potential voters (citizens twenty-one years old and over).

In the field of vital statistics, the county in 1950 had 1,308 live births, 369 deaths (including 23 infant deaths), and 739 marriages.

There were 11,110 families in the county (two or more persons related by marriage or blood). The median income of all of these families was given as $3,034. More than 24 per cent had incomes of less than $2,000, while 19.3 per cent had incomes of $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, the county in 1950 had a total of 5,095 young persons between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Of this total, 3,210 were between the ages of seven and thirteen years (primary school age), and 96.5 per cent of these were enrolled in primary schools. There were 1,635 between the ages of fourteen and seventeen years (high school age), and 92.4 per cent of these were enrolled in high schools. Of all persons in the county twenty-five years old and over, it was found that the median number of school years they completed was 12.3. It was found further that 3.4 per cent completed less than five grades, while 56.3 per cent completed high school or went to college. The institutional population of the county in 1950 (inmates of homes for delinquent or dependent children, prisons, etc.) was 495.

With reference to labor, Johnson County had a potential labor force (persons fourteen years old and over) of 36,097. Actually employed, however, were 16,994 persons, of which 62.8 per cent were males and 30.2 per cent females. The largest number of those employed, totalling 5,355, were engaged in professional and related services associated with the State University of Iowa at Iowa City. The next largest group, numbering 3,478, were engaged in agriculture. There followed 2,948 who were engaged in wholesale and retail trade, 1,068 in business and personal services, 868 in construction, 795 in transportation, communication and other public utilities, 693 in manufacturing, and 32 in mining. The labor figures were summed up by showing that 20.6 per cent of the county's total employed were engaged in agriculture, while 4.1 per cent were engaged in manufacturing.

On the subject of housing, Johnson County in 1950 had a total of 11,978 dwelling units (in 1940 it had 9,623). The median number of rooms per unit was 5.0. More than 71 per cent of the total were one-dwelling unit detached structures (including occupied trailers), 19.4 per cent were built in 1940 or later, and 63.9 per cent had hot running water with private toilet and bath. The median number of persons per unit was given as 2.9. More than 55 per cent of the houses were owner-occupied, 67.2 per cent had central heating, 86.7 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and 97.3 per cent had radios. There were 9,328 houses classified as non-farm dwelling units, and the median value of these was given as $9,231. The median gross monthly rental of renter-occupied units was given as $45.65.

In 1948, when the last United States business census was taken, Johnson County had a total of 441 retail stores, which employed 2,570 persons and which grossed $40,868,000 in sales. The largest number of these, totalling 3,108, were classified as eating and drinking places, and these grossed $3,180,000 in sales. Next were food stores, numbering 76, and grossing $7,472,000 in sales.

The 1948 business census figures showed further that the county had 60 wholesale establishments, which employed 242 persons and which grossed $20,612,000 in sales. There were also 97 establishments classified as personal, business and repair services, all of which employed 191 persons and which had receipts amounting to $1,465,000. Additionally, the county had (in 1947) a total of 32 manufacturing establishments, which employed 412 persons and which manufactured goods, materials and articles in the amount of $1,575,000.

Aside from its leading position as an educational and medical center, Johnson County ranks high as an agricultural county. In 1950 it had a total of 2,417 farms, of which 2,266 were classified as commercial farms. More than 29 per cent of all farms were operated by tenants. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $29,135,000. In 1949, four years after the close of World War II, the value of all farm products sold (crops, livestock, poultry, dairy products) was given as $21,291,000. Farm expenditures in that same year amounted to $3,863,000 for livestock and poultry feed, and $857,000 for hired labor.

Total bank deposits in Johnson County, as of December 30, 1950, amounted to $28,798,000. At the same date, the county's only savings and loan association had savings capital amounting to $1,257,000, with $1,204,000 in first mortgage loans outstanding.

IOWA CITY

As the story of Iowa City is largely the story of Johnson County, details of the city's past may be found in the opening historical narrative of this work. Today, Iowa City, principal community and seat of justice of Johnson County, is the Hawkeye State's twelfth largest city. In 1950 it had a total population of 27,212—an increase of 58.4 per cent over its 1940 figure. An unofficial estimate made in 1955, however, places the city's population at 29,500. The city is also the center of a retail trading area in Johnson and several adjoining counties with a total population estimated at 68,000.

Located in the center of the county and occupying both sides of the Iowa River, Iowa City is renowned throughout the state and the Midwest as the seat of the State University of Iowa. It was founded more than a hundred years ago, or while Iowa City was still the capital of the Hawkeye State. Today, the university owns fifty modern buildings spread out on a 600-acre campus occupying both sides of the Iowa River. It has a present enrollment of 8,000 students. Here, also, is located University Hospital, nucleus of a great medical center.

Principal historic sight of the city is Old Capitol, a dignified stone building in the Greek Revival style which served as Iowa's first territorial, and first state, capitol. Another sight of the city is the home of the late Grant Wood, famed regionalist artist. There are a number of manufacturing plants in the city, among them Moore Business Forms, Inc., River Products Company, and Protein Blenders, Inc.

SOLON

In the northeast portion of the county, not far from Lake Macbride State Park, lies the old town of Solon, which today has a population of 527. In addition to a number of retail stores and service establishments, the town contains a hatchery, creamery and feed mill. Solon is located on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on State 261. It is a shipping point for corn, oats and hogs produced in the surrounding countryside.

Solon is believed to have been laid out about 1842 by John West, early settler. It did not develop, however, until 1850, when the town was re-surveyed for H. H. Kerr and P. B. Anders. Today, Solon is the only community in Big Grove Township, with a total population of 1,041. First settlers of the township, all of whom arrived in 1839, were Robert Matthews, Warren Stiles, Jehiel Parks, P. C. Brown, E. M. and Moses Adams, Anber Arassmith, Charles Fowler, W. Fackler, Warner Spurrier, Charles Connelly, Thomas King and Strawder Devault. The township was organized in 1845.

CEDAR TOWNSHIP

One of the earliest ferries of Johnson County was established on the Cedar River in Cedar Township. It was started in 1841 by A. C. Sutliff. Many of the stone blocks used in the building of Old Capitol, at Iowa City, were transported across the Cedar River at Sutliff's Ferry. From the ferry they were hauled to Iowa City by ox teams. First settlers of the township, all of whom arrived in 1838, were not only Sutliff but James Buchanan, Thomas Prague, Isaac Dennis, Joshua King, Jesse B. McGrew and Matthew Cavanaugh. The township was organized in 1846. Today, it has a population of 489.

TIFFIN

When the town of Tiffin was laid out in 1860, it was named after Tiffin, Ohio, original homeplace of Rolla Johnson, on part of whose Illinois farm the second Tiffin was located. Johnson and some of the other early settlers of the area around Tiffin were bee-keepers as well as farmers. Today, Tiffin town has a population of 256. It is located just northwest of Iowa City on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on US 6. Tiffin is the principal community of Clear Creek Township, which has a total population of 1,265. The township, divided by Clear Creek, was organized in 1846. Its first board of trustees was composed of Archibald Gilliland, Ebenezer Douglas and H. H. Winchester.

OAKDALE

Another community of Clear Creek Township is Oakdale, known mainly for the location here of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. The sanatorium consists of numerous hospital buildings as well as several dairy barns, a greenhouse, water works and a power plant. Oakdale is located on the Cedar Rapids & Iowa City Railway and on State 153.

EAST LUCAS TOWNSHIP

EAST LUCAS TOWNSHIP

When the township form of local government was established in Johnson County in 1846, what is now East Lucas Township was embraced in the original Iowa City Township. In 1873, however, Iowa City Township was greatly reduced in size and two new townships were created—East Lucas and West Lucas. Today, Iowa City Township is co-terminus with the boundaries of the city itself.

As may be gathered from its name, East Lucas Township lies east of the Iowa River. It is a fertile farming area and is traversed by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and by US 6. The township has a present population of 966. There are no villages in the township and most of its residents trade in near-by Iowa City. Parts of East Lucas Township were annexed to Iowa City in 1940 and 1947.

LONE TREE

In the southeast "thumb" of the county lies the town of Lone Tree, which in 1950 had a population of 639. It is located on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on State 22. The town is a shipping point for cattle, hogs and corn produced in the surrounding countryside. Lone Tree was laid out in 1872 by John W. Jayne and derived its name from a single large elm tree that served as a landmark to early residents of the area. Today, Lone Tree is the principal community of Fremont Township, which has a total population of 1,315. The township was organized in 1857 and named after General John C. Fremont, who then was a candidate for President.

RIVER JUNCTION

Another community in Fremont Township is the small village of River Junction, with a population of twenty-five. It is located on the Iowa River and through it passes State 22. Near this village existed the early town of Napoleon, first seat of justice of Johnson County. Napoleon gradually disappeared after Iowa City became county seat in 1839. At a remoter period, the site of Napoleon was occupied by several Indian villages.

MORSE

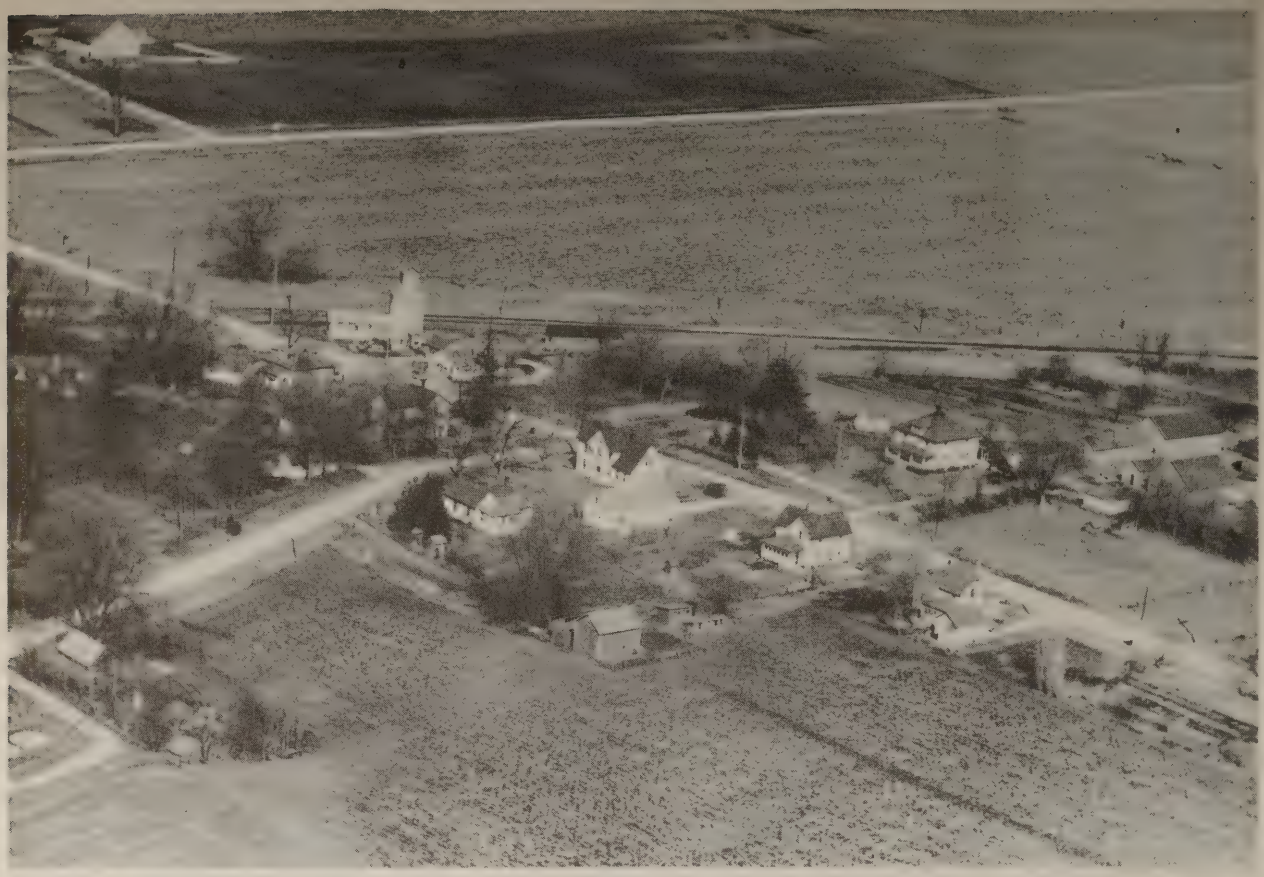
In the fertile farming area northeast of Iowa City may be found the village of Morse, with a population of forty-five. It is served by the postoffice at Iowa City. The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad runs through the village. Morse was founded more than seventy-five years ago around a railroad station. Today, it is the principal community of Graham Township, which has a total population of 518. The township was organized in 1857 and named after John Graham, early settler. First settler of the township was William Jayne, who arrived in 1840.

ELMIRA

Another small community of Graham Township is Elmira. It is located south of Morse. Through it runs the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad.



OASIS

Still another small community of Graham Township is the village of Oasis. It is located southeast of Morse near the Cedar County line. The village is served by a grain elevator alongside the right-of-way of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad.

WINDHAM

Founded more than a hundred years ago, Windham today has a population of thirty-three. It is served by the postoffice at the nearby town of Oxford. The founder of the village was Asby D. Packard, who laid it out in 1854. St. Peter's Roman Catholic church was organized here in 1860. Seven years later the Windham Evangelical church was organized in the village. Today, Windham is the principal community of Hardin Township, with a total population of 637. First settler of the township was Asby D. Packard, who arrived in 1838. The township was named after William Hardin, a later settler.

COSGROVE

Also located in Hardin Township is the small village of Cosgrove. It is situated in the fertile farming country north of Windham. Cosgrove has a present population of thirty-one. The village is served by the postoffice at nearby Oxford town.

SWISHER

The incorporated town of Swisher, in the northwest portion of the county near the Linn County line, has a present population of 205. Through it runs the Cedar Rapids & Iowa City Railway. The town has a number of retail stores and service establishments as well as a postoffice and banking facilities. It is the principal community of Jefferson Township, which has a total population of 751. First settlers of the township were James McAllister and W. M. Stewart, both of whom came about 1839. Several years later Benjamin Swisher and a few others arrived.

SHUEYVILLE

Another community of Jefferson Township is the village of Shueyville, with a present population of fifty. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Cedar Rapids (in Linn County). The village is located on State 218. It was named after W. H. Shuey, an early settler.

COU FALLS

Still another community in Jefferson Township is the hamlet of Cou Falls, which today has a population of twelve. It is served by the postoffice at Swisher. Through it runs the Cedar Rapids & Iowa City Railway.

HILLS

South of Iowa City, on the Iowa River, lies the incorporated town of Hills, with a present population of 248. It has a number of retail stores, service establishments, a postoffice, banking facilities, and, on its outskirts, rows of grain storage bins of the government's Commodity Credit Corporation. Through the town runs the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and State 218. Hills is the only community of Liberty Township, with a total population of 630. The township was organized in 1846. A one-time village of the township was South Liberty, laid out in 1856 by Vincent Gross.

LINCOLN TOWNSHIP

Southeast of Iowa City, near the Muscatine County Line, stretch the fertile acres of Lincoln Township, which in 1950 had a total population of 379. There are no villages or towns in the township. It was in 1870 that the township was organized and its first trustees were Alexander Waldron, B. F. Warner and Jacob Oppenheimer. The township's first clerk was Amos R. Cherry and its first assessor was Otto Means.

IOWA CITY

As the story of Iowa City is largely the story of Johnson County, details of the city's past may be found in the opening historical narrative of this work. Today, Iowa City, principal community and seat of justice of Johnson County, is the Hawkeye State's twelfth largest city. In 1950 it had a total population of 27,212—an increase of 58.4 per cent over its 1940 figure. An unofficial estimate made in 1955, however, places the city's population at 29,500. The city is also the center of a retail trading area in Johnson and several adjoining counties with a total population estimated at 68,000.

Located in the center of the county and occupying both sides of the Iowa River, Iowa City is renowned throughout the state and the Midwest as the seat of the State University of Iowa. It was founded more than a hundred years ago, or while Iowa City was still the capital of the Hawkeye State. Today, the university owns fifty modern buildings spread out on a 600-acre campus occupying both sides of the Iowa River. It has a present enrollment of 8,000 students. Here, also, is located University Hospital, nucleus of a great medical center.

Principal historic sight of the city is Old Capitol, a dignified stone building in the Greek Revival style which served as Iowa's first territorial, and first state, capitol. Another sight of the city is the home of the late Grant Wood, famed regionalist artist. There are a number of manufacturing plants in the city, among them Moore Business Forms, Inc., River Products Company, and Protein Blenders, Inc.

MADISON TOWNSHIP

Although entirely devoted to agriculture, Madison Township, northwest of Iowa City, contains a popular attraction in Swan Lake, a small body of water almost in the center of the locality. It was in the old Swan Lake Schoolhouse, built of logs, that the township's first trustees met when Madison was organized in 1860. Those first trustees were John Green, Jacob Linebarger and H. S. Gould. Today, Madison Township has a total population of 400. There are no towns or villages in the township. The Iowa River bounds the township on the north.

MONROE TOWNSHIP

In the northwest corner of Johnson County, just beyond the Iowa River, may be found the rich, productive acres of Monroe Township, which in 1950 had a total population of 469. There are no towns or villages in the township. It is well drained not only by the Iowa River but by Knapp and numerous other creeks. Monroe was first organized in 1846 and named after President James Monroe. An early settler of the township was William Dupont, who arrived in the 1840's. It was in his log house that the township's first trustees held their meetings.

OXFORD

A thriving community in the western part of Johnson County is the incorporated town of Oxford, which has a present population of 543. It is a shipping point for the stock, poultry and grain farms of the surrounding countryside. Here, also, is published the Johnson County Farmer, a bi-monthly agricultural journal edited by E. L. Henderson. Oxford is situated on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on State 109. The town was laid out in 1868 by P. C. Wilcox. At a later period his son, C. S. Wilcox, laid out several additions to the town. Oxford is the principal community of Oxford Township, which has a total population of 1,141. The township was organized in 1856 and its first trustees were John Cook, John L. Hartwell and Louis Doty.

NORTH LIBERTY

Near the junction of US 218 and State 153, north of Iowa City, is located the incorporated town of North Liberty. In 1950 it had a population of 309. In addition to motor highways, the town is served by the Cedar Rapids & Iowa City Railway. A few miles south of the town is situated the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, while a few miles north may be found Lake Macbride State Park. North Liberty was laid out by Francis Bowman sometime in the 1830's. It is the only community of Penn Township, which has a total population of 868. First settler of the township was John Gaylord, who came from Illinois in 1838. He afterwards sold his claim to John Wilson, a later settler.

PLEASANT VALLEY TOWNSHIP

PLEASANT VALLEY TOWNSHIP

It was in Pleasant Valley Township, on the Iowa River south of Iowa City, that some of the earliest settlements of Johnson County were made. Here, in 1837, arrived the brothers Samuel and James Walker, to be joined later by another brother, Joseph. All three came from Portage County, Ohio. Other arrivals in 1837 were Eli Myers, Philip Clark, William Wilson and Eli Shumway. The township was organized in 1846 and its first election was held at the house of Robert Walker. Today, Pleasant Valley Township has a total population of 328. There are no towns or villages in the township. The Iowa River forms its western border.

SCOTT TOWNSHIP

SCOTT TOWNSHIP

On either side of US 6, in the eastern portion of the county, lie the productive acres of Scott Township. In 1950 the township had a total population of 609. There are no towns or villages in the locality. In addition to US 6, the township is traversed by State I and by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad. Just east of the township, in adjoining Cedar County, is the village of West Branch, birthplace of former President Herbert Hoover. Scott Township was organized in 1846. Among its earliest settlers were Green Hill, Charles Jones and John A. Street, all of whom arrived about 1838. A Quaker meeting house was built in the township in 1869 under the direction of Mahlon Hollingsworth, of the Society of Friends.

SHARON CENTER

Having a present population of twenty, the hamlet of Sharon Center is the only community in Sharon Township, located in the fertile farming country southwest of Iowa City. In 1950 the township had a total population of 1,029. State 1 forms its western border. The township was organized in 1858, with Josiah Griffin serving as chairman of the first township meeting and J. P. Rockwell as first clerk. At a later period numerous families from Germany settled in the township. In 1866 there was organized the Sharon Evangelical church, and in 1875 came St. John's German Lutheran church.

UNION TOWNSHIP

UNION TOWNSHIP

In the year 1839, while Iowa was still a territory, six men arrived and took up claims in the prairie region southwest of Iowa City. These were the first settlers of present Union Township. The six were James Selhorn, John Davis, Allison Davis, Gallatin Hartsock, Edward Carson and A. H. Humphrey. Today, Union Township has a total population of 690. The township is partially traversed by State 1. There are no towns or villages in the township.

AMISH

In the southwest corner of the county lies the small trading center of Amish, with a population of twenty-seven. The village grew up around a postoffice here which, more than seventy-five years ago, served a small colony of German families of the Amish sect. Today, Amish is the only community of Washington Township, which has a total population of 1,061. Among the first settlers of the township were John Fry, Jacob Fry, John Graham and John Buckingham, all of whom arrived about 1839. An early postmaster and storekeeper of the township was Charles Yoder.

CORALVILLE

One of the oldest communities of Johnson County is the town of Coralville, located just northwest of Iowa City. It has a present population of 977. Through it runs the Cedar Rapids & Iowa City Railway as well as the Iowa River. It was at Coralville that more than a thousand Mormons camped in 1856 while they made handcarts for a crossing of the Great Plains to Salt Lake City, Utah. The town of Coralville received its name in 1866 when excavators, working on the foundation of a water mill, found extensive formations of coral, a discovery that later aroused the interest of scientists. Coralville is the principal community of West Lucas Township, which has a total population of 3,564.

UNIVERSITY HEIGHTS

Another community of West Lucas Township is the town of University Heights, with a present population of 446. It is served by the postoffice at adjoining Iowa City. The town is well situated on land that overlooks the campus of the State University of Iowa, Iowa City and the winding Iowa River.

Rolling prairieland and lush fields depict the Iowa scene.

IOWA, one of the prairie states, is a broad plain varying in altitude from 477 feet to 1,670 feet. Although some of the rivers are lined with bold and picturesque bluffs, most of the state is sufficiently level so that the roads have been laid out in checkerboard fashion. Iowa's eastern boundary is formed by the Mississippi River and its western boundary in part by the Missouri.

Numerous attractive lakes are scattered throughout the state, most of them in the north. This lake region of the north and northwest is one of the most important resort areas of Iowa. East and West Okoboji, Spirit Lake, Storm Lake and Clear Lake are especially notable. A number of fish hatcheries operated by the state have done much to improve the fishing in Iowa waters. Pike, trout and bass are plentiful.

VISITED in 1673 by Marquette and Joliet, the French explorers, Iowa again was visited in 1680 by Michel Accault and Father Hennepin. The latter left an account of his travels in this region in a journal entitled "Description of la Louisiane." As a result the French claimed the territory, although there had been previous claims by the Spanish government in 1493 by right of explorations of Christopher Columbus. France ceded her rights to Spain in 1762.

In 1788, Julien Dubuque, a French Canadian, crossed to the Iowa side of the Mississippi and established the first settlement. In 1796 he obtained a Spanish grant to an immense tract of land that included the site of the city now bearing his name. Erecting a trading post, he began mining lead and carried on a trade with the Indians until his death in 1810, when his holdings were abandoned.

The United States obtained possession of Iowa through the Louisiana Purchase in 1803, and the following year President Jefferson sent Lewis and Clark to explore the country. A strip of land west of the Mississippi River was opened to white settlement in 1833. Communities soon developed at †Dubuque, †Davenport, †Burlington, †Fort Madison and other places. When Iowa became a territory in 1838, Burlington was the temporary capital.

In 1845 the region around †Des Moines was thrown open to white settlement. Immigration, in spite of some Indian hostility, was rapid. In 1846 a constitution was adopted and Iowa was admitted to the Union. The first state legislature met in Iowa City. Des Moines became the capital in 1857.

FROM the time of the earliest settlement, Iowa has been important agriculturally, leading all states in the proportion of area under cultivation. It produces more corn than any other area of equal size in the world and is the source of one-tenth of the world's corn crop. More oats and hogs are raised here than in any other state, and Iowa ranks first in the cash value of cattle. The state is also an important producer of butter, eggs, fruit and nuts, popcorn and timothy seed. Vegetables and nursery products also are raised extensively.

Iowa leads the states in per capita wealth, as well as in value of farm buildings and equipment. Many industries thrive here, including a number of industrial plants which are the largest in the world of their kind.

The most important industries in Iowa are the processing of agricultural products and the handling of grain and livestock. Leading manufactured products include farm implements, washing machines, fountain pens, cosmetics, buttons, railroad equipment, furnaces, lawn mowers, calendars, cartons, vending machines, auto accessories, earth-moving and rock-crushing equipment, sheet aluminum, electro-metals and office equipment.

More than 2 million tons of coal are mined annually in the state. There is a broad belt of coal on both sides of the Des Moines River, and important deposits in southwestern Iowa. Cement and clay also are produced in large quantities; lead and zinc were mined in early days. Important gypsum deposits are east of Fort Dodge.

State Recreation Areas

In many of Iowa's recreational areas, campgrounds are available to visitors for 50 cents a night per camping unit, or $2.50 a week. Lodges for social gatherings are available in many of the parks; summer rates effective May 1 to Oct. 1; winter, Oct. 1 to May 1. Cabins may be rented from $3.75 to $9 per day, depending upon the area in which they are located. A limited number of cabins for organized groups rent at 25c per person per day. Requests for reservations should be directed to the park custodian at the town indicated as nearest the park.

Ambrose A. Call Recreation Reserve, 1 mile southwest of Algona, on State 274, includes 130 acres on the east branch of the Des Moines River. Picnic and camp areas.

Backbone State Park, 4 miles southwest of Strawberry Point, on State 19. Within its 1,412 acres are limestone bluffs rising 80 to 100 feet above the Maquoketa River, a number of springs and caverns and a 100-acre artificial lake.

Trails lead through the area and to the top of a rocky ridge, which affords fine views. In the northern part of the park is a trout hatchery operated by the state.

Facilities include a supervised swimming beach, bathhouse, boathouse and an auditorium. Trout fishing, winter sports. Camp and picnic areas. Cabins.

Beaver Meadow State Wayside, 74 acres, one-quarter mile north of Parkersburg, on State 14. Site of a pioneer refuge from Indians. Good fishing, picnicking.

Beeds Lake Recreation Reserve, 3 miles northwest of Hampton, off U. S. 65. A 259-acre area; artificial lake stocked with fish. Picnic grounds, supervised beach.

Bellevue Recreation Reserve, 149 acres, south of Bellevue. High bluffs along the Mississippi River. Camp and picnic areas, a golf course; good fishing.

Bixby State Monument, 69 acres, 2 miles north of Edgewood, contains an ice cave, numerous flowing springs and a waterfall. Hiking trails, picnic area, open shelter.

Black Hawk Recreation Reserve, on Black Hawk Lake near Lakeview, includes 353 acres. Located here are the largest fish rearing units in the state. Excellent fishing; boats available. Picnic areas, shelters, bathing beach; camping.

Brown's Lake State Park, 4 miles west of Salix, offers swimming, boating, fishing and picnicking.

Brush Creek Canyon State Park, 2 miles northwest of Arlington. A rugged gorge with limestone walls and a brush-covered valley. Nature trails, picnic areas, shelters.

Clear Lake Reserve, 70 acres, 1 mile southwest of the town of Clear Lake. One of the most popular resort lakes in the state for fishing, boating, bathing. Pike hatchery, spawning area. Camp and picnic facilities.

Cold Spring Recreation Reserve, 60 acres, 2 miles south of Lewis. Principal feature of the area is the large spring issuing from the base of a sandstone bluff. Picnic grounds; swimming in a 14-acre lake.

Dolliver Memorial State Park, on the Des Moines River, 4 miles north of Lehigh. A wooded area of 612 acres, with sandstone cliffs bordering the river and several small valleys.

Of interest are the sandstone bluffs impregnated with iron, which lie along the banks of Prairie Creek; Boneyard Hollow, a ravine where Indian relics and bones of elk, deer and buffalo have been found; a bronze tablet by Lorado Taft at the spring in memory of Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver, an ardent champion of conservation.

Facilities include cabins, picnic areas, campgrounds and shelters.

BANKING TABLES

RULES FOR COMPUTING INTEREST

The following is an approximate way to estimate the interest on any principal for any number of days. When the principal contains cents, mark off four places from the right of the result to express the interest in dollars and cents. When the principal contains dollars only, mark off two places.

2%—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run, and divide by 180.

4%—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run and divide by 90.

5%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 72.

6%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 60.

7%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 52.

8%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 45.

9%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 40.

10%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 36.

12%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 30.

15%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 24.

HANDY FACTS TO KNOW

To find diameter of a circle multiply circumference by .31831.

To find the circumference of a circle multiply diameter by 3.1416.

To find area of a circle multiply square of diameter by .7854.

To find surface of a ball multiply square of diameter by 3.1416.

To find side of an equal square multiply diameter by .8862.

To find cubic inches in a ball multiply cube of diameter by .5236.

Doubling the diameter of a pipe increases its capacity four times.

Double riveting is from 16 to 20 per cent stronger than single.

One cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about 53 pounds.

One cubic foot of bituminous coal weighs from 47 to 50 pounds.

One ton of coal is equivalent to two cords of wood for steam purposes.

A gallon of water (U. S. Standard) weighs 8½ pounds and contains 231 cubic inches.

A cubic foot of water contains 7½ gallons, 1,728 cubic inches, and weighs 62½ pounds.

Each nominal horse power of a boiler requires 30 to 35 pounds of water per hour.

To sharpen dull files lay them in dilute sulphuric acid until they are eaten deep enough.

A horse power is equivalent to raising 33,000 pounds one foot per minute, or 550 pounds one foot per second.

The average consumption of coal for steam boilers is 12 pounds per hour for each square foot of grate surface.

To find the pressure in pounds per square inch of a column of water multiply the height of the column in feet by .434.

Steam rising from water at its boiling point (212 degrees) has a pressure equal to the atmosphere (14.7 pounds to the square inch).

To evaporate one cubic foot of water requires the consumption of 7½ pounds of ordinary coal, or about 1 pound of coal to 1 gallon of water.

⅛ Inch equals 1 size in measuring boots and shoes.

4 Inches equals 1 hand in measuring horses.
1 Link equals 7.92 inches.
1 Rod equals 25 links, 16½ feet.
1 Chain equals 4 rods, 66 feet.
1 Mile equals 80 chains, 5280 feet.
Wall paper is usually 18 inches wide.
A single roll is 24 feet long.
A double roll is 48 feet long.
A lath is 4 feet long and 1½ inches wide.
Builders calculate that a bunch of laths will cover 3 sq. yds.
1000 Shingles, applied 4 in. to weather cover about 100 sq. ft.
1000 Shingles require about 5 pounds shingle nails.
20 Yards of surface will require about 1000 laths.
1000 Laths will require about 11 pounds of lath nails.

HOW TO REMOVE STAINS

Blood and meat juice. Use cold water; soap and cold water; or starch paste.

Bluing. Use boiling water.

Chocolate and cocoa. Use borax and cold water; bleach if necessary.

Coffee and tea. (Clear.)—Use boiling water; bleach if necessary. (With cream.)—Use cold water, then boiling water; bleach if necessary.

Cream and milk. Use cold water, then soap and cold water.

Egg. Use cold water.

Fruit and fruit juices. Use boiling water; bleach if necessary.

Grass. Use cold water; soap and cold water; alcohol; or a bleaching agent.

Grease and oils. Use French chalk, blotting paper or other absorbent; or warm water and soap; or gasoline, benzine, or carbon tetrachloride.

Iodine. Use warm water and soap; alcohol; or ammonia.

Ink. Try cold water; then use an acid or bleach if necessary.

Iron. Use oxalic acid; hydrochloric acid; salts of lemon; or lemon juice and salt.

Kerosene. Use warm water and soap.

Lampblack and soot. Use kerosene, benzine, chloroform, ether, gasoline, or carbon tetrachloride.

Medicine. Use alcohol.

Mildew. If fresh, use cold water; otherwise try to bleach with javelle water or potassium permanganate.

Paint and varnish. Use alcohol, carbon tetrachloride, chloroform, or turpentine.

Perspiration. Use soap and warm water; bleach in the sun or with javelle water or potassium permanganate.

Pitch, tar, and wheel grease. Rub with fat; then use soap and warm water; or benzine, gasoline, or carbon tetrachloride.

Scorch. Bleach in the sunshine or with javelle water.

Shoe polish. (Black.)—Use soap and water; or turpentine. (Tan.)—Use alcohol.

Syrup. Use water.

Stove polish. Use cold water and soap; or kerosene, benzine, or gasoline.

Vaseline. Use kerosene or turpentine.

Water. Steam or sponge the entire surface of water-spotted materials.

Wax. Scrape off as much as possible. Use French chalk, blotting paper or other absorbent, with a warm iron; or use benzine or gasoline. If color remains, use alcohol or bleach.

FIRST AID

WHAT TO DO IN CERTAIN EMERGENCIES

First aid is the first care given to help injury or sudden illness until necessary treatment can be given by a physician.

Cuts and Scratches: If severe, stop the bleeding by direct pressure on the wound with a sterile pad. When the bleeding ceases, paint with 2 per cent iodine and let it dry thoroughly before applying bandage or Band-Aid.

Open Wounds: Clean dirty or greasy wounds with high grade benzine, then apply half strength iodine. All open wounds should be covered with gauze or bandage. Do not touch wound with fingers. Do not use anything but accepted antiseptics, or blood poisoning may be caused.

Burns: For severe burns call a physician at once. To slight burns apply sterile gauze wrung out in a solution of warm water and baking soda, or apply the 5 per cent tannic acid jelly from your first aid kit. Never put iodine on a burn. Apply any bandage loosely.

Poison Ivy and Sumac: Wash thoroughly with soap and warm water. Apply dressings kept wet with a very strong solution of Epsom salts and cold water; or else apply a thick paste made of soap and warm water, which should be allowed to dry and remain on all night.

Insect Stings: Remove "sting" and apply household ammonia or a paste made of baking soda.

Sprains: Violent stretching or twisting of a joint may cause a sprain. It is characterized by pain and rapid swelling. Keep injured part raised, on pillow if an ankle, in sling if a wrist. Apply compresses wrung out of cold water, or ice bags. Send for a doctor if the case is severe.

Fainting: Keep patient lying down and lower head. Loosen any tight clothing. Apply ammonia inhalant or smelling salts to nose and sprinkle face with cold water.

Shock: Lay patient on back, head low, loosen clothing around neck, chest and abdomen. Keep warm with blankets and hot water bottles. If conscious and able to swallow, give hot, strong coffee, hot milk, or half a teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in water.

Fracture: Apply splints reaching above and below the joints of the fractured bone, to permit moving without pain or danger. Three persons are needed for lifting on stretcher—one at head and shoulders, one at hips, and the other at the legs.

Eye Injuries: Loose particles may be removed from eyelid with a clean handkerchief or a bit of cotton rolled on a toothpick. Particles embedded in the eyeball or lid must always be left to a surgeon, or blindness may result. Use cold compress temporarily to relieve pain until doctor arrives.

Sunstroke: Cool head and body — especially head—as quickly as possible with cold compresses, ice bags, or a cool bath. Never give stimulants. Keep head slightly raised. Treat heat exhaustion same as shock.

Fits: Do not attempt to hold patient down. Place any small object between teeth to prevent biting tongue. Let sleep after the attack has passed, as exhaustion usually follows.

Dog Bite: Wash wound with running water, and apply tincture of iodine. Bandage and take to doctor immediately to decide whether Pasteur or Vaccine Treatment is advisable. Have the dog examined by the local health authorities for possible evidence of rabies.

FOR POISONING

First: Send for a physician.

Second: Induce vomiting by tickling throat with feather or finger. Drink hot water or strong mustard and water. Swallow sweet oil or whites of eggs.

SPECIAL POISONS AND ANTIDOTES

Acids: Muriatic, Oxalic, Acetic Sulphuric (Oil of Vitriol), Nitric (Aqua Fortis).

Ant.: Soap suds, magnesia, lime-water.

Prussic Acid: Cyanide of Potassium.

Ant.: Ammonia in water. Dash water in face. Give stimulants.

Carbolic Acid:

Ant.: Flour and water, mucilaginous drinks.

Alkalies: Potash, Lye, Hartshorn, Ammonia.

Ant.: Vinegar or lemon juice in water.

Arsenic: Rat Poison, Paris Green.

Ant.: Milk, raw eggs, sweet oil, lime-water, flour and water.

Bug Poison: Lead, Saltpetre, Corrosive Sublimate, Sugar of Lead, Blue Vitriol.

Ant.: Whites of eggs or milk in large doses.

Chloroform: Chloral, Ether.

Ant.: Give emetic, keep patient aroused; apply mustard plaster over heart and calves of legs; use artificial respiration.

Carbonate of Soda: Copperas, Cobalt.

Ant.: Soap suds and mucilaginous drinks.

Iodine: Antimony, Tartar Emetic.

Ant.: Starch and water, chalk, magnesia, starchy food, strong tea. Apply external heat.

Mercury and its Salts.

Ant.: Whites of Eggs, Milk Mucilages.

Opium: Morphine, Laudanum, Paregoric, Soothing Powders or Syrups.

Ant.: Strong coffee, mustard or ipecac as emetic. Keep awake and moving. Keep warm.

"DON'TS" IN THE USE OF THE FLAG

The conference called at Washington in June, 1923, to draw up a code covering proper civil usage of the flag, adopted the following list of things to avoid:

1. Do not dip the flag of the United States to any person or any thing. The regimental color, State flag, organization or institutional flag, will render this honor. At sea the flag may be dipped in acknowledgment of the salute of the flag of another nation.
2. Do not display the flag of the United States with the Union down except as a signal of distress.
3. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the flag.
4. Do not let the flag of the United States touch the ground or tail in the water.
5. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.
6. Do not use the flag as drapery.
7. Do not fasten the flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily torn.
8. Do not drape the flag over the top or sides of a vehicle, train or boat.
9. Do not use the flag to drape over front of a platform or over chairs or benches.
10. Do not display the flag on a float in a parade except on a staff.
11. Do not use the flag as a ceiling covering.
12. Do not use the flag of the United States as a portion of a costume.
13. Do not put lettering upon the flag.
14. Do not use the flag in any advertising.
15. Do not use the flag in such a manner as to cause it to be soiled or damaged.

December 25. Christmas Day.

There are no statutory holidays in Mississippi, but by Common consent the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving and Christmas are observed. In New Mexico, Washington's Birthday, Decoration Day, Labor Day, Flag Day (June 14), and Arbor Day are holidays, when so designated by the Governor. In South Carolina, Thursday of Fair Week is a legal holiday.

Arbor Day is observed by the States on different days, usually in the Spring; in Georgia, in December. The dates in the same States often vary from year to year by proclamation.

Mother's Day is observed on the second Sunday in May.

Father's Day is observed on the third Sunday in June.

Saturday Afternoon is a holiday in many of the States and Cities and in the District of Columbia. Sundays are statutory holidays in Canada.

When a Legal Holiday falls on a Sunday, the following day is generally observed.
